Happy New Year to all the readers of this monthly weather report.

Rainfall: November was a wet month with successive days of heavy rain at the beginning of the month with 30 mm on 9th Nov and similar at the end of the month. This gave twice the normal rainfall resulting in some local flooding. December has been closer to average rainfall in the first half of the month and so far no snow.

Temperatures: Both November and so far in December the temperatures have been well above average but on 14 December the temperature only reached 6 degC. Don't forget you can now view the current weather in Payhembury on the Payhembury Village website (bottom right hand corner) but you may need to click on the box there to wake it up.

Weather elsewhere: Flash floods have caused havoc for some in Melbourne on 14th December, with flash flooding turning backyards, suburban streets and ponds into gushing rivers. In N. Carolina an intense snow storm resulted in some storm related deaths in the middle of December.
