Rainfall: Both February and early March 2016 have had just below average rainfall and so the ground is beginning to dry out.

Temperatures: February was warmer than average continuing the record breaking winter but March so far has been colder than the norm with several frosty mornings causing the daffodils to bend over. The 21st February was exceptionally warm both for the maximum and minimum temperatures.

Weather elsewhere: In the Central England Temperature record series, the longest temperature record in the world dating back to 1659, this winter has been the second-warmest at 6.7C, just behind the previous record of 6.8C set in 1869. The warmth has been most notable in the south of the UK with mean temperatures across much of the area more than 2C above average.
